THE HERALD.

CICERO T. SUTTON, J. S. GLENN, EDITORS

WEDNESDAY, NOV. 22, 1882.

OUR merchants are going to open their hearts on the day of our drawing and are going to sell goods at their very lowest figures to persons visiting town on that day.

If you are needing anything, bring along your spare change and buy it from our merchants. They will treat you right and sell you goods as cheap as you can buy them any where.

THE Hartford HERALD is very nice, all of a sudden. It is in opposition to newspapers displaying large roosters, and the like, when a grand victory has been achieved. We know what's the matter: "Evil communications corrupt good morals;" the boys of the HERALD have been keeping company with a white coon, and its about got the better of them.—Litchfield Sunbeam.

BEN BUTLER's big Bay State bust has revived the stories formerly circulated about the old Beast. One of the best of these is that told by Ben Perley Poore during Butler's career in Washington. "He was one day present at a private dinner party where were quite a number of officials and their ladies. When they were all seated at table and coffee was served, the hostess happened to notice that Gen. Butler's cup had no spoon in it. 'I declare, Gen. Butler,' said she, 'your cup has no spoon in it.' 'So help me God, madam, I am innocent' was the reply as he hastily rose from the table and turned his pockets wrong side out. The merriment of the guests was unbounded as they knew that Butler's salve was a joke. The confusion of the hostess may be better imagined than described.

WE rise for information. We want to know the difference between a tariff for revenue only and a tariff for revenue with incidental protection. The tariff, as long as one of any kind exists, must afford protection to some extent. It seems to us there is a war of words over a distinction that is too subtle and fine-spun for ordinary mortals to see. Both plans propose to make revenue the object aimed at by the tariff, and if there can be a tariff devised which will afford revenue and no protection, we confess our inability to this writing to see how it can be done: we would like for some gifted brother, if we are strong, to set us in the right.

We have been liberal to the people and we ask the people to be liberal to us. Where is the country newspaper with the backbone to give away $575,000 in valuable premiums to subscribers? We cannot, however, keep a stiff backbone unless our friends supply the necessary stiffening. This they have done in the past, and we are thankful. We shall have no premiums to offer next year, but we will give a better paper than they have ever had before. We want three thousand subscribers next year, and if we get them we will greatly enlarge our paper or reduce the price even lower than it now is. We do not think our readers would be willing to have the price reduced in preference to an enlargement of the paper, so we will promise a thirty-six instead of a thirty-two column sheet for 1883. Let every friend of the HERALD secure one new subscriber and we will have largely over three thousand, and then we will show you a few things.

SOME curious revelations might be brought about if Jay Hubbell was compelled to disclose what he did with the money raised by assessing the Government employees. Several hundred thousands of dollars must have found their way into his hands, and, doubtless, the parties who paid it feel a little anxious to know how it was applied to produce so little in return, as the Republicans were overwhelmingly defeated all over the country. The clerks, perhaps, would not object to paying if that means they can retain their positions and a chance to get it all back again, but this thing of paying the fiduciary for some one else to dance to is just a little trying to their sense of patriotism. We hope those cheated and deluded mortals will demand that he show his books and account for every dollar that has been paid to him. It would be nothing but right; for a man who would engage in such a disreputable business as forcing money from employees of the government, under pain of removal if they did not comply, for the purpose of influencing votes and debauching the ballot box after all his party's parade and cry of "free ballot," would not hesitate to let a little stick in his own pockets. And then, on business grounds, as the holder of a trust fund, he is in duty bound to account for his trust. It would be a curious spectacle to see that report with its debits and credits. Here a credit to the account of some poor clerk or postmaster for $15, $20 or $50. In other places a debt to some Congressional district in Kentucky. What was it sent there for? To buy votes and save the country. The Republican party, as the hope of the nation, must be retained in power in order that the people be allowed to express their free and untrammeled will at the polls. Can't they do that without money? Oh, but a little cool cash arouses their patriotism to a wonderful degree. "It is strange that a party that prates so glibly about 'patriotism' and relying on the 'intelligence and honesty of the people' has been forced to abandon the honored traditions of its leaders and resort to corruption and the low tricks of buying the votes of dishonest and reckless men who would barter the sacred right of freeman for filthy lucre, in order to perpetuate itself in power. When a party lives on the votes of the floating class and is rejected by the honest voter, it is time for it to die or call a halt and reorganize on a sounder basis. Let the investigation proceed, mi Lord; we anxiously await the result.

The huky subscriber who draws our handsome gold watch will never forget November 25th, 1882. He will always eat his thanksgiving turkey with a kindly thought for the HERALD and a determination to renew every year as long as he lives.

Some disgraceful revelations have been made regarding the conduct of Judge Fireley, of Whitley county, at the recent election. He is a Republican and at the polls was drunk and carried a huge revolver all day, threatening to kill the first negro who dared to vote for Wolford for Congress. One negro attempted to vote for Wolford, but was caught away from the polls and taken to a room and locked up until he agreed to vote for Carr. Such conduct on the part of a Circuit Judge is monstrous, and we join the Louisville Post in demanding his impeachment if the charges are true and there is little room for doubt among them.

THERE is said to be a body of land of a thousand or two acres, on Indian Camp Creek, in this country, to which no one has laid claim. It is too poor to produce anything and there is no timber on it, consequently it is almost entirely worthless. We have heard some lively anecdotes of this God-forsaken territory, and it is certainly a bad place. Last fall a prominent farmer and stock man was traveling through the settlement buying cattle and he came to a cabin where an old man and his wife lived alone. He saw two young cattle in the yard and asked what he would take for them. "What will you gumm?" "Eleven dollars apiece." "Take 'em. If you had said five I would 'tuck it," replied the old man. The old woman had kept her head closed until this last remark, when she exclaimed: "La, old man, haint that a good trade? Why we bought them calves last fall and paid $1.50 for them an' I took the straw out of the straw bed to feed 'em to keep 'em alive last winter." It was evidently a good trade, as the gentleman said it was his opinion that they had not seen so much money at $22 at one time since the war. He told the old woman to get up some more calves for him and left wondering that such destitution could exist in his own country.

WE are in receipt of the tobacco circular of D. J. Garth, Son & Co., of New York, and in looking over it have discovered some interesting figures. The stock in six of the principal cities of the world on the first of this month amounted to 125,841 hogsheads against 152,815 at the same date last year, a shortage of 28,774 hogsheads. There is less tobacco on the market at the present time than at any time since January 1st, 1876. The exports for the ten months just closed are 90,297 hogsheads, against $1,441 for the same period last year. England takes less than half the amount of last year, while Italy takes more than double, or $1,469 to 15,372 last year. The receipts thus far in the year at New York and New Orleans are 72,031 hogsheads. Complaints of housemen come from nearly all sections and also that of rather an inferior crop. Good tobacco, where it can be found, will bring a good price and farmers who have even a fair article should handle it with care, so as to be able to put it on the market in the best possible condition and thus realize the highest obtainable price for it. The raising of the weed as prosecuted in this country, is at best unprofitable and those who will persist in raising it should aim to do their best all the time. The leading tobacco raisers of years ago are all turning their attention to other pursuits and the result is a steadily decreasing crop, both in quality and quantity. Still a further falling off may be expected if the present state of affairs continues and the result will finally be to make tobacco culture profitable if crops of good quality are raised. Poor tobacco never will be remunerative.

WE called at the bank the other day and while there we noticed a check for sixty cents, on the corner of which was stuck a little blue piece of paper, the marks on which showed that Uncle Sam was two cents better off than before the check was drawn and the man who drew it was that much poorer. It was a little thing, only a two cent revenue stamp, but it involved a principle and whenever a principle is involved the result will be to catch the eye of the law. It was the largest check ever drawn by any one individual or firm, and at the rate the man we have spoken of paid, the revenue on Gould's check would have $103,333.33. How much did he pay? Two cents. Is this just? Is it right to make a poor man pay two cents on his little drab and charge the millionaire no more if crops of good quality are raised? Poor tobacco never will be remunerative.

Another matter by which Kentucky Legislatures have shown their inability in a remarkable degree is their negligence in passing general advertising laws. Nothing should be done by the county or State without first letting the people know about it or that they are impracticable they should know about it as soon after as possible. If a contract for any public work is wanted the practice is to post three notices on the court house door and the other two on trees somewhere in the county, advising the public of the fact that the county would like to have bids for such public work. These notices are probably read by five idle boys and the result is that there is no competition in bids and the work goes out at a much higher rate than if it had been made known through the public prints. It is probable that frequently enough could be saved to the county on a single contract to pay for all the advertising for the county for a year. In any event nothing could be lost, for where the price is fixed by the State as it would be of necessity be in a general advertising law the work would be done reasonably.

In reference to the many roosters appearing in the papers during the last two weeks, we rise to ask what did the cock-a-doo-le-doo?

COME to town Saturday and bring us $1.50 for the paper if you have not already paid for it. Every person paying then will, by special arrangement, be allowed to participate in the drawing.

Some of our enemies have been staying at our drawing would be postponed. Their statements are as little entitled to credit as their makers. We shall not postpone under any circumstances.

MR. J. L. GOODMAN, publisher of the McLean County Progress, and Miss Belle Cavers, of Owensboro, were married at the first Baptist Church in Owensboro last Thursday, by Rev. J. B. Solomon. The lady has got a Goodman in more than name and we trust that they may be happy.

THE trial of Charley Fowler for the murder of Eddie Bishop occurred at Stanford last week and the result was a hung jury; four being for acquittal and eight for two years in the penitentiary. The killing occurred at school and was the result of a misunderstanding. Fowler was fourteen years old and Bishop eleven.

THE survivors of Morgan's Command met in Lexington last week for the first time since the war. The proceedings were very interesting and a whole day was spent in renewing acquaintances and reviving memories of the bloody days of their youth. Gen. Basil Duke was the presiding officer. Another and a larger meeting will be held some time next year.

THE ladies are especially invited to visit Hartford next Saturday. We will do everything possible to further their enjoyment while here, and they will find everybody willing to do the same thing. Our very best friends are the ladies in all parts of the country, and we can call to mind large numbers of them who show their friendship by the money they spend for the HERALD, consequently we shall welcome them warmly.

WE notice in the Lexington Transcript that Governor Blackburn is still continuing to run his pardoning mill. His last is the pardon of a young man in Clark county convicted of carrying concealed weapons. He was promptly pardoned by the Governor. And yet this is the "good old man" who is so eager to uphold law and order that he threatens to send a whole army to protect Neal and Craft and maintain the "majesty of the law." It does seem queer that a man who overrides the law and renders it nugatory and void, as the Governor does, should be so suddenly filled with righteous indignation and becomes uncompromisingly advocate for the law to take its course whenever the people attempt to follow his official example. He does not respect the law, and why can he consistently expect the people to? But then the Governor always is found on the side of crime and disorder, and when the people attempt a little disorder in order to teach criminals and courts a wholesome lesson, he turns savagely against them and is a for-the-law man with a vengeance. Taking the law in his own hands is a privilege, the people must understand, that belongs exclusively to his Excellency, the Governor.

Report of the Superintendent of Public Instruction—Ohio County.

THE report of the Superintendent of Public Instruction is before us, and is full of facts and figures relative to the Common Schools of Kentucky. We had only time to take some facts in regard to the Common School of Ohio County. For the school year ending June 30, 1881, there were enrolled in the commissioner's census report 6,431 children of school age. The highest number in attendance upon the schools at any one time was 2,490 and the lowest was 555, and an average of 2,130. Showing that there is an average attendance of less than one-third of the children of school age going to school in Ohio county. And yet there were only three districts in which schools were not taught during the school year notwithstanding this fact there were 3,970 children who did not enter the schools at all. Deducting perhaps three or four hundred who are attending High-schools and Colleges in the county and out of it, there still remains 3,500 who do not go to school at all according to the reports filed with the Superintendent. And if an examination were made it would show that the class that are not attending schools are the very ones for whose benefit the school system was devised. Although the people are taxed for their benefit they do not receive any benefit from it. The property holder is perfectly willing to be taxed provided those who are unable to educate, themselves, shall receive the benefit, but very pertinently asks why should I be taxed for the benefit of those who are perfectly able to educate their own children? Every sensible man must admit that to this, to a great extent, is due the restlessness of the people under the working of the system. We cannot but think that a great step forward would be taken in the matter of enlarging the attendance if the pay of the teacher was made to some extent at least, dependent upon his securing an approximately full attendance of the children in the district in which the school is taught. A great many teachers, as unwilling as we may be to believe it, have only one object in view and that is drawing the public money. They care nothing whether there is a large or small number of children coming to school. They are eager only to put in time and make their draw. If the draw depended on the number attending, to some extent, they would feel interested in having all attend that possibly could. And we have no doubt but it would result in a largely increased attendance. Very frequently some of the patrons do not know the school is being taught until it has been going on some time; the teacher knows his money is not depending on whether they come or not and so is indifferent about the matter. But make his pay dependent on a full attendance and he will notify every patron when the school commences and will urge them to send their children and see that they do attend if it is possible for them to do so. After all the interest in education in any community depends largely upon the teacher and the efforts he makes to awaken that interest. That is one of his duties and if made obliging upon him would doubtless lead to better results.

Another thing in the report that is worthy of attention is the salary of the teachers of the county. According to the report the average salary of teachers in Ohio county, is only $22.26 per month. Of course it is impossible to obtain qualified teachers for that amount of money. The report shows that there were only $2,196.58 raised by subscription during the year, on a little over $21.00 to the district. This shows how largely the State fund is depended upon to supply educational facilities for the children of the county. Of the 74 certificates granted during the year 32 were first-class, first grade and 18 first class, second grade, showing 50 teachers out of the 74 holding first-class certificates, and this in the face of the fact that the average salary is only $22.26 per month. It shows that the grade of a certificate does not amount to much or that talent is cheap in Ohio county. The report shows that there has not been a single applicant rejected for the year, but furnishes no information as to the ages of those who have secured certificates nor their experience in teaching. This was valuable information that our worthy commissioners should not have overlooked. We notice that in our neighboring county, Muhlenberg, the average age of applicants for certificates is 20, and that out of the 49 who were given certificates 30 had no experience in teaching. This is one of the evils of the system: young men and ladies without any special qualifications or intention of becoming professional teachers, teach or rather hold school for a session or two because they are out of employment or want a little ready money. The need is for professional teachers who will give both time and talent to making their schools a success and awakening an interest in the subject among the people.

THE ladies are especially invited to visit Hartford next Saturday. We will do everything possible to further their enjoyment while here, and they will find everybody willing to do the same thing. Our very best friends are the ladies in all parts of the country, and we can call to mind large numbers of them who show their friendship by the money they spend for the HERALD, consequently we shall welcome them warmly.

O. H. WILLIAMS, Beaver Dam,
W. A. GIBSON, Caneyville.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

WILBUR F. BROWDER, of Logan county, is a candidate for Attorney General of the State of Kentucky, subject to the action of the Democratic party—election August 1883.

PERSONALS.

Mr. Henry Daniel, of Caneyville, was in town Sunday and Monday. He called at the HERALD office.

Mr. and Mrs. Wickliffe, of South Carrollton, after a pleasant visit of several days to this place, returned home last Saturday.

Miss B. V. Fitzhugh, of Bowling Green, accompanied by Mr. Frank Smith, of Sulphur Springs, was in town yesterday.

Mrs. Bell Berry left yesterday for Hardin county to visit her sister, Mrs. West English. She will be absent several days.

Mr. W. A. Gibson, of the firm of Anderson & Gibson, Caneyville, arrived in town Sunday. He reports business booming at Caneyville.

Mr. C. T. Whittinghill, of Pattierville, called to see us Monday. He was lamenting his inability to get married and it is our honest opinion that he has an ax to grind. Look out, fair maidens.

Mrs. Gross Williams went to Nine Grove, Hardin county, last Friday where she will remain several days visiting relatives and friends. She was accompanied by her brother, Mr. Henry Eskridge, of McHenry.

Circuit Court begins Monday.

Hill's Hair and Whisker Dye, fifty cents.

Pike's toothache drops cure in one minute.

Medicated underwear at Anderson's Bazaar.

50,000 good brick for sale by Williams Bros. 3844

Big bargains in jeans for court trade at Anderson's Bazaar.

All one dollar patent preparations for 85 cents, at Ford's.

Read the Circuit Court docket. It will be of interest to certain of our readers.

Sugar and coffee at a low price, and quality challenged at Williams Bros.

The $150 watch will make some man happy. It ought to when it did not cost him a cent.

Anderson's Bazaar are receiving immense bargains especially for the court trade.

Teachers of Public Schools can get their claims cashed at the Bank of Hartford for a small discount.

The finest display of pocket cutlery ever brought to this market, at Williams Bros.

The foundation of the Baptist Church at this place is completed and the erection of the building will soon be begun.

Rev. J. S. McDaniel preached, last Sunday morning, at Equality Church to a large congregation, and in the evening at Centertown to a good audience. He preaches twice every week at some point in his work.

The residence of Mr. R. P. Crabtree, a few miles from town, burned last week while the family were absent from home. Nothing whatever was saved. He had a policy with Mr. J. P. Sanderford, agent of the Phoenix Insurance Company for $500.

The protracted meeting which has been in progress for a little more than two weeks at Buford, under the conduct of Revs. J. S. Coleman and B. F. Swindler, closed last Thursday night. Forty-nine were baptized Thursday and were taken into full fellowship together with a large number of others who were re-baptized or taken in by relation, etc. The meeting was a success in every respect. Efforts are being made to secure Dr. Coleman's services at this place to hold a series of meetings. We hope they will be successful.

When you come to court don't forget to go to Anderson's Bazaar and see the only place in Ohio county where you can get Stark's boots and Stevens' shoes.

Nothing is so appropriate for a holiday present as fine jewelry etc., like that kept by Mr. J. H. Bishop, the jeweler of Owensboro. If you want a watch, a ring, a pair of bracelets, or any thing in that line he is the man to buy from. The time for ordering your presents for Christmas is approaching and you ought to make up your mind as to where you can get the best goods for the least money, and J. H. Bishop's is the place.

Some fiend attempted to burn the house occupied by the widow Boswell, at Springtown, a suburb of Beaver Dam, last Saturday night. About eight o'clock Mrs. Boswell went to the door and made the discovery that the house was on fire. The flames had just been kindled and was easily subdued though the wall was saturated with coal oil. No clew could be found to the incendiary except some very large tracks around where the fire was. Mrs. Boswell is an eminently respectable lady and no cause is known for thus attempting to burn her house.

J. E. Brown, of South Carrollton, owns one of the best stone quarries in the State, and as an evidence of the fine quality and durability of said stone, his quarry furnished the stone work for railroad bridges across Green river at Rockport and Livermore, hence having an inextinguishable amount of the best article of stone within a few hundred yards of his marble yard, gives him advantages in furnishing the country with cemetery work over any other marble yard in the Green river country hence this is one reason why he can and does sell headstones and monuments for less money than any other establishment in the State, and if you wish to be convinced of this fact call at his office and he will take pleasure in showing you the different grades and qualities of marble and the various styles and designs of headstones and monuments and give you the prices same accordingly, and if you need anything in his line you will be satisfied that he will give you a better bargain than you can get elsewhere. 45-3t.

We Deny the Charge.

SOUTH CARROLTON, Nov. 16, '82.
Editor Herald:

Dear Sirs:—We find in the issue of your paper, of the 15th inst., an editorial purporting to give an account of a shooting scrape, said to have taken place in this community on last Friday night, in which the undersigned are mentioned with a view to have them implicated in the affair. We desire it to be known that we can be found at our place of business at any time ready to make answer to any charges that may be preferred against us. Also if your informant does not know anything more about the affair then he appears to know from his statement; we would advise him to have a little more care how he couple other parties names with such conduct. We make this reply because we are the only Kirtley boys in the neighborhood of the party said to have been shot, and we ask a publication of this communication that a reparation of the injury done us by your informant may be had in our behalf.

A Revival.

Editor Herald:

I recently held a meeting near Cromwell, Ohio county, which lasted eight days and resulted in nine conversions. Five were baptized in Green river at Cromwell. The Lord has greatly blessed his people and this is truly the great day of the feast to his children when they meet around one common altar and speak one to another, and the Lord leads his ear and gives his presence to assist in saving souls. The meeting was held at Bro. Cox's in Pinchicco. May God continue to bless his church and people. My best wishes are with the HERALD. LEWIS H. VOYLES.

An Accident.

Saturday, about 11 a. m., at the depot in Livermore, while one John Gordon, a young man who had been out hunting turkey, was standing near the platform of the depot talking to Wm. Philpot, with his gun on his shoulder, it, by some means, went off and wounded three negro boys who were sitting behind Gordon in range of the gun. One was shot in the arm, one in the leg and two in the body. Two of them were right badly hurt, though not seriously, though the gun was loaded with turkey shot.—McLean County Progress.

Commonwealth of Kentucky, EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT.

WHEREAS, It has been made known to me that John Matthews, charged with the murder of Andrew Duncan, in the County of Ohio, State of Kentucky, on or about the 23d of October, 1882, is now a fugitive from justice, at large, and I desire to offer a reward of FIVE HUNDRED DOLLARS for the apprehension of said John Matthews, and his delivery to the Jailer of said County.

In testimony whereof, &c.

LUKE P. BLACKBURN.

By the Governor:

JAS. BLACKBURN, Sec. of State.

DESCRIPTION.

John Matthews is about 26 yrs. old; hair dark; light mustache and goatee; rather low, square forehead; peculiar expression about the mouth; has a small dark scar under his left eye caused by a piece of coal striking it; about 5 ft. 6 inches high and weighs about 140 lbs., and rather square build; his movements and speech are quick and he has a shrill voice; in walking is inclined to swing his left hand and arm. He is a coal miner and worked for the McHenry-Rockport Coal Co. at Echols, Ky., for about 1 year, and previous to this he was a waiter.

Moore's Editor.
The above is a good likeness of Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, Masseuse to all other human beings but herself, called the "Great Mother." She is zealously devoted to her work, which is the outcome of a lifetime, and is obliged to keep her lady patients in constant attendance, having correspondence which daily pours in upon her, and bears a heavy social burden of offering or joy at releases from it. Her Vegetable Compound is a panacea for good and not for evil. It is personally investigated and attested of the truth of this.

On account of its proven merits it is recommended and prescribed by the best physicians in the country, and has won a large share of the market for relief from pain. It will entirely cure the worst form of failure of the uterus, leucorrhea, irregular and painful menstruation, sterility, palpitation, inflammation and ulceration, salivation, all rheumatism and the consequent spinal weakness, and is especially adapted to the change of life.

It performs every portion of the system, and gives a general tone to the body, and, in fact, cures, destroys all craving for stimulants, and relieves weariness of the temples. It cures Blasting, Headaches, Uterine Protrusion, General Debility, Slope-shoulders, Deformities, Sterility, Palpitation, Ulcers, Concrements, and all Rheumatism, and the consequent spinal weakness, and is especially adapted to the change of life.
